Call for Republican Territorial Central Committee.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE of New Mexico. Santa Fe, Aug. 23, 1898. of New Mexico. Santa Fe, Aug. 23, 1898. )
The Republican Central Committee is hereby called to meet at the office of the chairman in Santa Fe, N. M., at 10 o clock a. m., on Thursday, the 5th day of September, 1888, for the purpose of fixing the time and place of holding the territorial convention to nominate a candidate for delegate in congress; fixing the number of delegates thereto and their apportionment among the several counties; and such other business as may come before the committee.

Chairman.

Max. FROST, Secretary,

The Agricultural college at Las Cruces is a very lucky institution. It receives the neat little sum of $40,000 per year from this great and glorious government and has a corps of 24 professors and assistant professors on its pay roll. Nice thing for the professors and spends and the effort will be anything but a money in the community.

The managers of the New Mexico Horticultural fair to be held in this city early next month are at work to make the affair a success. They made the first exhibition last year a success and over free coinage has so far been very will succeed again this time. The U. S. Indian school in this city should increase its usefulness and efficiency and the New Mexican is of the opinion that under the new superintendent, Mr. Veits, this will be the case. The school should contain at least 500 scholars. It is situated in one of the healthiest sections of the United States and in the nation. There is less disposition Indian country. ### General Wood on Captain Luna.

The New Mexican takes great pleasure in publishing, for the information of all concerned, the following letter received by this journal from Brigadier General Leonard Wood, U. S. volunteers. the first colonel of the 1st U.S. volunteer cavalry, the "Rough Riders," as to the services during the recent war rendered by Captain Max, Luna, commanding Troop F of the regiment, in its service and campaign from its muster in on April 30 to the present time.

General Wood is well known as a high minded, conscientious, gallant and successful officer and commander, and his statement, as published herewith, will forever silence the slanderous reports of the scandal mongers and envious blather skites, who have attempted by falsehood, innuendo, vile fabrications and lies to blacken the record of this gallant young soldier for either personal or political reasons.

The letter reads:

To the Editor of the New Mexican. Santiago de Cuba, Aug. 4, 1898.-I desire to inform you that the services of Captain Maximiliano Luna, 1st volunteer cavalry, have been of the high-est order, and that his coolness and gallantry have been conspicuous in every action our regiment has been engaged in. I make this statement in order that you may correct the false and malicious circulated against this officer.

Very truly yours, LEONARD WOOD, Brigadier General U. S. Army, Late Colonel 1st U. S. Volunteer Cavalry.

The Denver Republican, in vesterday's Issue, has a neat editorial on the flag, borne aloft by the "Rough Riders" during the Cuban campaign and which was escorted by Troop E of the regiment on its landing on Long Island en route to Camp Wikoff. There is but one error in the article The flag in question was presented through the agency of this paper by the ladies and citizens of this territory to the New Mexico squadron of the regiment consisting of Troops E, F, G. #### The Congressional Situation.

The election which takes place in November next will virtually be a trial of the Republican party before a jury composed of the voters of the entire in every state, and the congressional elections will be conducted upon national issues, or rather upon the comnendation or condemnation of a Republican administration.

Into the campaign will enter three principal items: The effects of a protective tariff, the conduct of the war. and an effort will be made by the free silverites to force the coinage question o the front again. On the first proposition the Democrats will endeavor to show that under the Dingley tariff law the people have been compelled to pay more for the necessities of life, that the been a failure. All the sophistries possible of invention by the human mind will be used to accomplish the objects sought, and despite the wonderful showing made by the manufacturers. agriculture and business generally since the enactment of the law, the free traders will go upon the stump for the is black, sometimes, and particularly when protection is bringing prosperity to the country. So far as a revenue measure is concerned, the Democrats, by a manipulation of the expenses of the country while carrying on a war, will endeavor to show that an enormous deficit has resulted from the effects of the law, but the voters are pretty well informed upon the subject themselves,

On the money question there will be peculiar situation. In most of the states where the Democrats have held state conventions free silver has been indorsed, it is true, but the enthusiasm mild. There is no question that the and at the same time maintaining the parity of every kind of money used in the country, regardless of the intrinsic value of the metals, has satisfied the great majority of the people that the refusal of the United States to become the dumping ground of the world's output of silver two years ago was one of the most sensible things ever done by the center of what was once an extensive now to make any change in the mone-

So far as the Republican party's conof executive ability. The New Mexican duct of the war is concerned, any effort credit and praise for the subjoined will aid in every way possible to make to cause dissatisfaction over that will readable and instructive budget of mining utterly fail. The Democrats have aided in the prosecution of the struggle, have laid aside politics, equally with the Republicans, and while there may have been differences of opinion regarding details, the objects in view have been the same to all political parties. There will be an effort made to use the war as a campaign Issue in some sections of the country, but the better element of the Democratic party will not lend its influence in behalf of such a move-

From present indications, the Demo erats can only hope to be successful in electing congressmen, outside of the solidly Democratic states, in congressional districts where local issues may overshadow national matters. Those districts will be so few that if the present number of Democratic members in the lower house of congress is kept intact, that party will consider itself for-

As the Phoenix Gazette says, "The many readers of New Mexico papers are treated with the peculiar spectacle of a murderer pleading his own case in Oliver Lee and one Gillland were wanted for the murder of Colonel Fountain and son. Sheriff Pat Garrett and posse attempted to arrest them and in the fight the desperadoes killed one H. K. Kearney and escaped. Later they sent to the press a graphic letter descriptive of the fight." In the states an outlaw, dodging the officers of the law, would not think of writing letters to the press to excuse his crime. In Texas, abouts of an escaped murderer was known, he would be arrested even if it was necessary to send every militiaman in the state on his trail. But in New Mexico, Oliver Lee, after killing an of ficer of the law, armed with a warrant for his arrest, retires to his ranch and sends the papers a graphic description of the fight he made and tells why he will not be arrested by this or that of-

And still some people wonder why New Mexico is not admitted to statehood. It would be better for Uncle Sam to place that territory under martial law until its criminal element can learn that crime can not override the law. Let Governor Otero lend Sheriff Garrett some aid and send enough men after Lee to capture him in short order.

4 P. M. Tuesday .-- Ah, there it is again, soft, sweet, melodious, directly under my window. I have heard it every day for week, but the sweet singer is unser No doubt she is some fair daughter of the south, with liquid eyes, ruby lips and the figure of Hebe. In vain I have strained my sight, and my manly form, too, as I have leaned far out of the window in a futile endeavor to see over the neighboring wall, from beyond which the voice comes. My charmer remains unseen, and I—I throw myself back in the easy chair, light a cigarette and listen. What pathos! Again, what spirit! I could love the owner of such a voice. Smoke and fancies circle around me. The mansion the high wall environs is princely in appearance. Every sign of wealth and comfort distinguished No doubt the singer is beautiful-the child of wealthy parents; mayhap their only one. Her songs are evidently exponents of her character, simple everyday ditties. I always admire simplicity in womankind. I light another eigarette and decide that a wife who could sing like the unseen songstress would be a treasure to possess, just as "Suwannee River" floats up to my window—a dream of melody. I meditate on the rich surroundings, the prospects. I picture the stern parent giving his consent to my union with his fa-vored child. My thoughts overpower me, I snatch up my hat hurriedly and rush to the elevator. Now or nover! I must-I will see the singer!

5 P. M .- There was a gate in the high

SCHOOLBOY HUMOR.

THE YOUNG IDEA WRITES OF THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.

Impressions of a Juvenile on a Visit to the Zoological Gardens - Essays Upon the Outdoor Quadruped, the Lion, and the Indoor Quadruped, the Cat.

Schoolboy humor seems inexhaustible and there are some rather novel specimens of the English article in a book entitled "The Comic Side of School Life." It includes several school compositions, of which we subjoin two:

A VISIT TO THE ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS. Of all the animals in this world the zoological gardens is the most. You go in by a gate and when you have got a bit way down there they are all round Ameriky can't be nothin to it. The lion, which is the king of all the animals wot ever lived, was so little that I shouldn't have noen it was him. only I have seen picters and my mother said, "Look, Tom, now you can say as you've seen a lion." Why, he isn't quarter as big as a eliphent, and he hasn't got no trunk. Lthink the eliphent could master him if he liked, but the big silly won't try, coz he's so kind and doesn't want to be king.

The lion is yeller, but not so yeller as in the picter book what the board gev me. He looks at yer through the bars like as wot he was sayin: "You think as you can fight, don't yer, little boy, just coz you no I can't get out all coz of this bloomin kage. If I could only skueez through, I'd swallow you and ver mother too." I said to my mother, I should like to hear the lion a-roarin. when she said, "Why, that was a-roar in just now when the keeper looked in at him." Then I nearly cried I was so wild. Why, it wasn't like thunder and lightnin at all. It just opened its mouth wide, like as yer seed men sittin at their doors and a-gapin on Sunday afternoons. and it yoped no louder than a apple cart man does.

THE CAT.

The house cat is four legged quadruped, the legs, as usual, bein at the corners. It is sometimes what is called a tame animal, though it feeds on mice and birds of prey. * * * When it is happy, it does not bark, but breathes through its nose instead of its mouth, but I can't remember the name they call the noise. It is a little word, but I can't think of it, and it is wrong to copy. Cats also mow, which you have all heard. When you stroke this tame quadruped by drawin ver hand along its back, it cocks up its tail like a ruler so as you can't get no further. Never stroke the hairs acrost, as it makes all cats scratch like mad. Its tail is about two foot long, and its legs about one each. Don't teese cats, for, firstly, it is wrong so to do, and, second, cats have clauses which is longer than people think. Cats have nine liveses, but which is seldom required in this country coz of Christianity. Men cats are allas called Tom, and girl cats, Puss or Tiss, but queer as you may think, all little cats are called kittens, which is a wrong name which oughter be changed. This tame quadruped can see in the dark, so rats stand no chants, much less mice. Girls fears rats, even mice. Last Tuesday I drawed our cat on some white tes paper, and I sold it to a boy who has a father for 20 pins and some coff drops.

War, the Great Leveler. "Well, suh, dis war beat de devil. W'y, dar wuz Mr. Ben-dey call him 'kunnel' in time er peace, en be answer ter 'kunnel' same ez a nigger ter pay day, but when he lan' in de army de Nunited States didn't reckernize his entitlements. clared his confiding young wife. "He'll get over it." "I don't know. He never comes in late at night but he is so flustrated that he can give no lucid explanation of where he has been." - Detroit Free
